

Enhanced Visitor Experience

Common in large office buildings, residential complexes, long-term-care homes and other large facilities, digital building directories have emerged as a cost-effective and innovative alternative to traditional building directory boards, enhancing communication, improving user experiences, and communicating timely information with tenants and visitors.

Promote Building Amenities

Prior to and during user engagement, our interactive building directories allow property managers to incorporate rotating graphics and video content to share a variety of venue information including welcome messaging, leasing information, building amenity updates, current facility rules, and more.

Easy User Navigation

With the touch of a button users can easily access tenant information by interacting with the fully customizable tenant list and accessing the individual tenant profiles showcase information such as logos, company bios, suite numbers, contact information and more.

Staying Current

Our digital building directory solution allows property management to easily update and manage one or all networked displays, both remotely and locally, from one centralized online platform, ensuring that directory content is always consistent and up to date.
